

The a Small Lantern of the Deep Blue S

picture by Echo

In the heart of the deep blue sea, small and easy to miss, lived a small lantern.

The a small lantern was very small, and the wide the deep blue sea felt so very big.

A dark blue night sky with a yellow crescent moon in the upper right and numerous small yellow stars scattered across the upper half of the image.

Every day the a small lantern looked around and wondered if it could ever matter.

Then one morning, something went wrong in the deep blue sea.

The light went out, and everyone was afraid.

A dark blue night sky with a yellow crescent moon in the upper right and several small white stars scattered across the upper half.

"I am too small," the a small lantern thought. "But I will try anyway."

The a small lantern took a deep breath and tried with all its heart.

The first try did not work. It only made things wobble.

The first try did not work. It only made things wobble.

It was not magic. It was trying, again
and again, until it worked.

The first try did not work. It only made things wobble.

A dark blue night sky with a yellow crescent moon in the upper right and several small white stars scattered across the scene.

The a small lantern sat down and felt very small indeed.

But it remembered the faces that needed help, and it stood up again.

The second try was better. The third was braver.

Little by little, the a small lantern kept going, and the others began to help too.

It was not magic. It was trying, again
and again, until it worked.

The wind picked up, but the a small lantern held on.

A friend called out, and the a small lantern felt less alone.

Every time it fell, it learned one new thing.

"You can do it," someone whispered. And the a small lantern believed it.

Step by step, the a small lantern found a new way no one had seen before.

It tried again, and this time, it worked.

Everyone in the deep blue sea gathered around, amazed.

The a small lantern learned: sharing turns a little into enough.

The End

sharing turns a little into enough

