

Each drops the clunky "of a" structure,

picture by Echo

In a stormy sky above an endless sea lay a gentle whale.

Tiny life swam beneath its gaze through grey mist.

It yearned for connection--a sense of belonging amidst oceans' solitude.

One day broke with more than
rain--distant cries echoed in its heart,
clear as night's breath.

Below, a small fish was trapped by a lost line, caught in darkness.

The whale knew the limits of its size--the blessings it carried.

Smallness allowed it to navigate spaces
big bodies couldn't reach.

A dark blue night sky with a yellow crescent moon in the upper right and several small white stars scattered across the frame.

As the cry grew stronger, it came closer.

Raw hope pulsated through echoes--deep
and real.

The End

kindness makes a home anywhere

